CONFERENCE AIMS

Are you responsible for leading the implementation of your school's new curriculum?

The Curriculum Planning and Delivery: effective implementation and evaluation conference has been established to support schools to successfully design and implement new curricula in the context of the new Education Inspection Framework. Featuring specialists from both primary and secondary settings, this event aims to empower SLTs, middle leaders and teachers to collaborate to deliver a joined up curriculum through Key Stages 1 to 5, ensuring that pupils are fully supported through the transition from primary to secondary. Built around examples of what really works, the agenda will cover topics including subject knowledge enhancement; teaching, learning and assessment of KS2 and KS3 pupils; character education and cultural capital; best practice in curriculum-led financial planning; and much more.

Building on the success of our Future of the Curriculum conference which took place in the summer term of 2018-19, the conference will also see the launch of Keynote's Curriculum Network, through which we are seeking to bring people together to support the design, delivery, and pupil achievement of high quality curricula through KS1 to KS5.

Delegate feedback from the Future of Curriculum conference includes:

" Really stimulating, helpful day. Lots of information, ideas and pointers to further resources. "

" Excellent conference with many takeaway ideas! "

" Sessions very helpful and have given me useful ideas, especially for middle leader CPD. "

" Variety of speakers, all bringing something different but very relevant. "

" Informative and engaging throughout - excellent speakers. "

Join us to move your thinking and practice on from curriculum theory to focus on actual delivery at a conference designed to provide ideas and resources which can be adapted for your school - how to actually get a clear and coherent curriculum design and implementation. This is not just about writing curriculum intent statements. Nor is it a one-off, standalone conference. Delegates and speakers alike will have access to the specialist support required to deliver effectively over time and come back to share what they have been doing, with a focus on implementation and opportunities for peer review.

BENEFITS OF ATTENDING:

- Gain a clear understanding of the demands of the new Education Inspection Framework and how best to respond to them
- Establish a strong grasp of the central tenets of curriculum design and how to plan an effective and ambitious curriculum
- Benefit from a focus on effective curriculum implementation that supports long term planning
- Develop ideas around the continuous assessment of impact and effectiveness of curriculum design
- Focus on good practice in supporting pupils in the transition from primary to secondary school
- Hear about new approaches to teaching, learning and assessment of KS2 and KS3 pupils
- Learn from in-depth case studies from schools that have carried out successful curriculum redesigns
- Understand how best to support teaching staff in curriculum design and development, including considerations around subject knowledge enhancement
- Build a toolkit of practical approaches to subject-level curriculum planning and delivery
- Learn how to effectively incorporate character education and cultural capital into your curriculum, with a particular focus on resilience and wellbeing
- Learn from best practice in curriculum-led financial planning
- Get tips from experts in collaboration and organisational change to support effective implementation
- Be one of the first members of the Curriculum Network
